

Students are writing the OSSLT in the library this morning. As a result, the school library will be closed at this time. Please be quiet and respectful at this time when in the foyer so as not to distract participants from this important task.

Eid al Fitr is an Islamic holiday marking the end of Ramadan, the month when devout Muslims fast daily from dawn to sunset. Ramadan is a time of increased worship, charity, and good deeds. In Canada, Eid al Fitr is celebrated today, April 10th. Eid al-Fitr means the feast, or festival, of breaking the fast. To greet someone who is celebrating this holiday one can say Eid Mubarak, or Blessed Eid, and Happy Eid.

Today is International Day of Pink! International Day of Pink is a day to stand together against bullying and discrimination. Today the front hall is decorated with the pink shirts and hearts that you filled in last week. On these hearts and shirts, you will find 1400 ways to be inclusive and kind to others. We hope you remember this today and every day.

A reminder that the Day of Pink assembly will be taking place this afternoon. Period 3 is for grades 9 & 12, and period 4 is for grades 10 & 11. Thank you to everyone who is wearing pink today and we look forward to the assembly this afternoon!
